Provincial Legislative Report

Alberta's 21st consecutive Social Credit budget was handed down in the legislature last week, and as usual indicated the administration is doing well under the orthodox monetary system.

Provincial Treasurer E. W. Hinman's "prosperity budget" was the largest in Alberta's history — calling for record expenditures of $242,421,555 in the coming fiscal year. Based on Alberta's population of 1,060,000, that is about $227 for every man, woman and child in the province.

The budget speech, delivered by Mr. Hinman at a special night sitting last Friday had the earmarks of an "election budget," even though last year was election year.

The best feature, so far as the average citizen is concerned, was the promise that the unearned increment tax will be abolished. The tax, which nets the province about $1,300,000 annually, has been levied on the increase in value of real property when it changes hands.

To compensate for the loss in revenue, the government proposes a small increase in land title fees, which haven't been changed since 1914. So far as the individual dealing with the land titles office is concerned, the increase in fees will be small. But the collection of revenue will be spread out over that many more people.

Opposition ranks in the legislature are hailing the abolition of the tax as a major victory. They have been urging it for several years. So have real estate agents and anyone with occasion to sell property.

As in past years, highways, education and public health — in that order, will take the biggest bite out of the public treasury during the coming fiscal year, which starts April 1st.

An all-time record $58,988,870 highway program is forecast, with $42,492,105 going to construction of main roads and bridges; $8,225,000 for grants to improvement and municipal districts, grants to special areas and contingency grants. The total cost of highway work will be an increase of $2,374,895 over last year.

Education department spending of $38,157,280 will be an increase of $3,658,915 over the previous year. Most of the increase is due to larger operational and constructive grants, which will amount to $33,340,100. The government will spend another $7,180,000 on tax reduction subsidy grants, which were started last year in an effort to keep school taxes throughout the province at 25 mills or lower.

Public health will cost the province $28,054,450 and will include what the budget terms "ample provision" for the province's entry into the proposed federal-provincial hospital and diagnostic service insurance. Ottawa will pay up to half of the cost.

Mr. Hinman, giving his first budget address since his appointment as provincial treasurer in the cabinet shuffle last summer, called for an operating surplus of $16,239,025 for the year.

However, the province will have to dip into its accumulated surpluses to the tune of $33,660,975 to make ends meet during the year. The reason is that $49,900,000 has been set aside for statutory payments.

These payments will include placing $25,000,000 into the municipal revolving fund, from which municipalities obtain low-interest loans to finance their capital works; $8,000,000 in loans to Alberta Government Telephones; $12,000,000 for school construction loans; $4,000,000 for the rural electrification revolving fund and $900,000 for home-leased lease loans.

Payments such as these are investments which the government expects to be repaid, but for budget purposes they are listed as expenditures.

The budget speech traditionally is delivered on a Friday night, so the opposition can study it over the weekend and be prepared to launch the budget debate the following Monday. J. Harper Prowse, Liberal opposition leader, was expected to start the debate Monday of this week.

Four days at sea
Ten more to go.

Dearest Everybody,

I just wish that you were all here with us now, and could have this experience too. We sailed from Southampton on the 10th, and we're on the Winchester Castle, Tourist Class. It is about 1/4 as big as the Queen Mary and travel 19 knots per hour. We average 450 miles a day. There are about 600 tourists so the boat is quite crowded. The food isn't so good either but we won't complain. We were just a little spoiled on the Queen Mary is all. We spent a couple of rough days going through the Bay of Biscay. Boy was it awful. We didn't know whether it would be worse to die or live. Then Elder Stanford (hall and hearty thru it all) informed us that if we died and were buried at sea, that we'd probably be sea sick until the resurrection. (ha-ha)

Joe Hicks Honored On Retirement

When Joe Hicks started work at the Raymond Stake House in 1945 it was to be for ten days only. But the time has stretched out and he stayed for ten years until his recent retirement at the age of 79 years. His work has been one of faithful and cheerful service. He has been kind to all who came to him and has helped solve problems and difficulties for many. The children all loved him. Here is an incident that happened a year ago. At Primary a little girl said to her mother, "Mama, I just saw Heavenly Father". Mother, "How can you be sure?" Little girl, "I know it is Him, you said this is Heavenly Father's house. Come in and I'll show you the man who lives here. He must be Heavenly Father, and the little girl lead the mother to the "man" who of course was Joe Hicks.

To show appreciation for his work and his wonderful personality a party was given him in the Stake House on Thursday, February 16th when the following program was presented: A Vocal duet by Annette Lybbert and Theodora Meeks, followed by a piano duet by Rojeana Bingham and her daughter Carol. Paul Redd then gave a talk in honor of Mr. Hicks and also related family incidents. Kay Redd presented Mr. Hicks with a book "Missionary Experiences and Sermons of Melvin J. Ballard". Joe made a reply telling how he had enjoyed his work and his association with the people.

A varied Smorgasboard lunch was served.

Joe Hicks came to Raymond with his mother, four brothers and one sister in 1904, his father having died in 1890.

The family purchased land and engaged in farming for a number of years. Later this land was sold to the late Ray Knight and Joe worked for the Canadian Sugar Factory for some time until he started work as caretaker of the Stake House where, as has been stated, he worked for 10 years.

Joe and his brother Frank, who with his wife, also lives in Raymond are the only remaining members of the family. His brother Ephraim died in 1919, his widow, Mrs. Gertie Hicks and daughters, Lily and Gertie live in Raymond and a third daughter Ella in Chicago. His mother died in 1938 and his brother Roy in 1955.

Delivering natural gas from the field to your burner tips is a giant-sized job! When gas is obtained from the wells (1) it must be fed through field gathering lines for treatment in processing plants (2). Field pressure and compressor stations (3) force the gas through transmission lines to Alberta's communities. At the transmission line terminus (4) natural gas is measured and its pressure controlled as it enters the distribution system. Regulating stations control and maintain uniform pressure. From the street mains a service line feeds gas to your home — processed, measured and ready to use!

Anyway we don't need to worry now because the ocean is just like glass and a beautiful deep blue in color. The water temperature is about 65 and it is about 75 on deck night and day.

Yesterday was just like a fairy tale I wish I could describe it to you so you could picture it. We came to the Maderials. It is semi-tropical and quite mountainous. The people grow grapes on the terraced mountain side, and of course they specialize in wine. It is a Portuguese island and the people are dark skinned and quite small. The city had cobblestone streets that were narrow and oxen taxis were a tourist attraction. They had ladies dressed in bright native costumes selling flowers etc. There were flowering trees and hedges all through the streets and coconut trees and other tropical trees and plants around. Their shops were quite small and their owners were out in the streets trying to entice as many as possible to come in. Little boys kept coming up and asking for pennies and had the most forlorn look. We found out it was a pretty good act anyway.

My I should really start at the beginning. When we first arrived in the harbor, the small boats by the dozens rowed out to meet us. They were young men who dove for coins. Then the passengers that wanted, went in the launches to the dock and the city was right there. After we'd walked about a block we discovered that the little man who had been pointing out things of interest, had just sort of hired himself as our guide. He really was nice and we would never of seen half the sights if he hadn't. We only had a couple of hours on shore and it turned dark soon after we had landed. I bought a few linen dollies and clothes. My, I've seen so much beautiful handwork, it was almost too much. Even the Elders enjoyed it. They surely deserve a medal of honor anyway. The people kept after them to buy something for their girls. It really was quite funny. We surely had good laugh afterwards.

We saw a fine wine cellar with rows and rows of barrels about the size of our gas tank. They thought we were crazy when we wouldn't accept free samples. Needles to say there were a lot of happy people on board that night. All in all it was really an experience out of the world. People were so happy, and it was just like a carnival.

I hope you can get part of the picture out of this letter. Anyway I know you can tell that I'm certainly having a good time. Now that we have our sea legs again, we are holding study classes every morning and taking turns giving the lesson. I finished the B of M again, and hope to finish the New Testament again by next week. We memorize at least a scripture a day so we keep busy. I surely could not ask for nicer travelling companions. We are all kind of green, but we are learning fast.

I got your letter Mom on the way to the boat. I was certainly relieved to hear that the operation was over. I hope they didn't treat you too roughly, and that your feeling like a new man by the time you get this letter. I pray the Lord will bless and strengthen you and Mom, that you might enjoy the blessings of this life. That if the Lord wills, you'll be able to go on an other mission. I could just hear you preaching in Hyde Park, dad. My, the people are searching for the truths in the Gospel, and with your (continued on page four)

After Mr. Tanner had spoken, Hugh John McDonald, Calgary Liberal, 2nd motion and made a few more charges.

As soon as Mr. MacDonald was finished, Social Credit members called for a vote. Hon. A. O. Aalborg, minister of education had been taking notes but didn't rise to debate the issue.

Fires took 46 lives in Alberta last year, including 17 children, according to A. E. Bridges, Provincial Fire Commissioner.

Of the child fatalities, seven were due to the youngsters being left alone in a dwelling, trailer or car and were consequently unattended. One child died from severe burns, after playing with matches as the clothing took fire.

The Alberta Safety Council has drawn attention to this heavy death toll in warning of fire hazards and the need of using every protective means to prevent fires.

Even this year is starting out badly as nine fire deaths have occurred already, two of these being children.

Officials of the Fire Commissioner's office say from 70 to 75 percent of fire deaths occur in homes.

A review of last year's total of deaths in Alberta shows that in addition to the children, eight women and twenty one men lost their lives in fires.

Causes of the blaze in 9 instances was due to gasoline lighted fires, while in three cases the cause was an explosion when coal oil was used to start the fire.

The misuse of gasoline or coal oil to light fires took five lives, comprising two children, two men and one woman.

In 1954, there were 5 lives lost in fires, including eight children. The worst year was 1953, when the death toll was 54, inclusive of 25 children. In 1952 there were 36 deaths of which 9 were children.

An unofficial computation shows that in the last 11 years, 460 persons have died from fires in this province.

The Safety Council suggests these things to do in case of fire: Don't fling doors open if you think there is a fire. Feel them first and if they are hot get out another way or block the doors with furniture or mattresses to keep out smoke and gases.

Remember the air is usually better near the floor in a smoke filled building.

Hold your breath and cover your face if you have to make a dash through smoke or fire.

Don't jump or drop from up-story windows except as a last resort—wait for the fireman.

Don't ever go back into a burning building for any reason, smoke and fire gases from even the smallest fire can be deadly.

Unless it is a small fire and you are certain you can control it with a fire extinguisher, don't waste your time or your life by trying to fight it—get away and call the fire dept.

There are 1,128,498 Canadian children enrolled in the Junior Red Cross. They are organized in 37,644 classrooms.

Alberta's Going Places...

Today Alberta Has More Than 2,000 Miles of Paved Highways...

Good roads are vitally important to Alberta's progress and prosperity. They are the arteries of modern commerce and communication... and open up vast opportunities for expansion and development of natural resources. Building and improving Alberta's roads and highways is so important that last year almost 28 per cent of the total provincial budget was allocated for this purpose.

7 HIGHWAYS BRANCHES

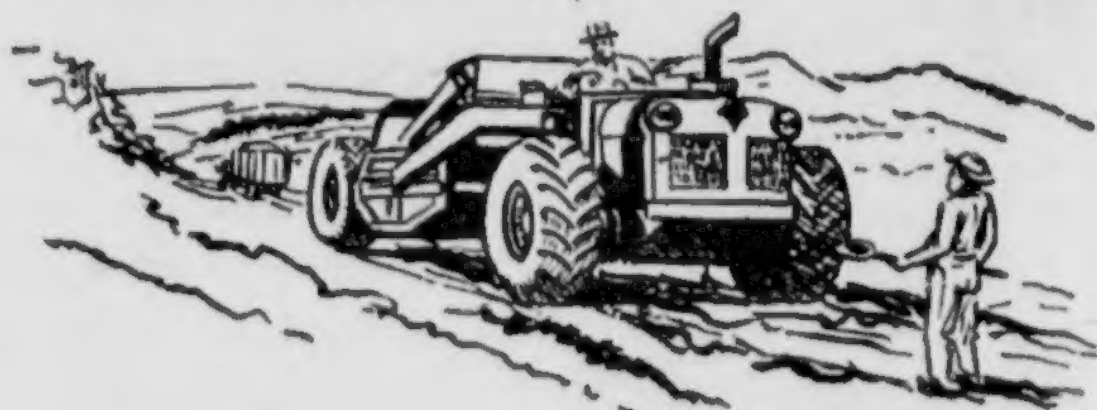

The work of the Alberta Department of Highways is conducted by 7 branches:

1. The Location Branch selects the location of new highways and roads.
2. The Surveys Branch surveys the completed location of highways and all roads in Improvement Districts, and administers all government-owned land in the province.
3. The Construction Branch stakes out highway locations, purchases gravel and does all work such as cross-sectioning and levelling.
4. The Bridge Branch builds all highway bridges and is presently conducting an expanded program to provide for modern traffic requirements. Bridge design is carried out by the branch, but construction is distributed among private contractors.
5. The Accounting Branch assembles costs of each type of highway, bridge and ferry.
6. The Maintenance Branch maintains all main highways, awards grants to municipal districts and improvement districts for road work and supervises all work done under these grants.
7. The Motor Vehicles Branch, which includes the Highway Traffic Board, issues all vehicle licenses, conducts drivers' tests and passenger car safety tests and controls truck and bus traffic.

85,000 MILES OF ROADS

A network of 85,000 miles of highways and roads, more than three times the earth's diameter, is controlled by the Department of Highways. Over 2,100 miles of the system are hard-surfaced highways—compared with 531 miles in 1946, just 10 years ago.

Alberta also has more than 28,000 miles of gravelled roads; 26,600 miles of graded roads which are still to be gravelled, and nearly 28,200 miles of district and local earth roads.

CARMA PAXMAN

wisdom and knowledge (which I sure wish I had) you could really reap a bountiful harvest.

We've been holding discussion with a gentleman who doesn't believe in the pre-existence or the immortality of the spirit. He believes that we'll be recreated at the resurrection and oh, I'm just so glad for my membership in a church that has the true understanding of the plan of salvation. I can truly say I love the gospel and all that it enfolds though I know just a small fraction of it. I surely feel the need of your faith and prayers to strengthen me that I might resist the temptations of the world and overcome all weaknesses of the flesh. This is a high goal I know and I've a long ways to go. It doesn't seem possible that I'm so far away from all of you at home, and I hope that I never quite realize it I have certainly been blessed so far for I feel very close to all of you and I pray that this feeling might remain with me throughout my mission.

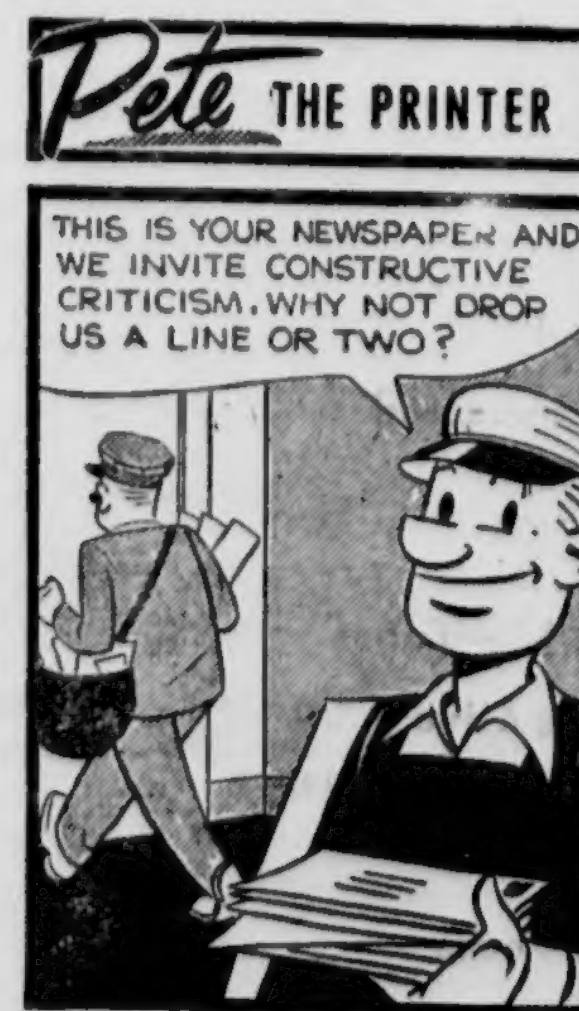

I should tell you the date, so you'll know what has happened since I started this letter. Today is Sunday the 20th. The Elders are ready to hold Sacrament Meeting, so I'll finish later.

I must tell you about our Initiation into King Neptunes Court. We were told to be prepared for anything and to wear our swimming suits. King Neptune and his court assembled around the pool, and then those who were crossing the equator were called one by one and accused of doing certain crimes and then given their penalty. I was accused of kissing the porters in the hallway (hmm!) and was lathered with flour and water and a little paint, then thrown into the pool 3 or 4 times. I'll enclose a snap if I get it by then. It really was a lot of fun, except it was quite a chore to get the flour out of my hair. Elder Beazer caught us by surprise, with his flash camera just as we were in the process of washing our hair. He surely was snap happy that day.

Last night was the Fancy Dress Parade and Dance. They really made quite an occasion out of it. We had a especially nice dinner with roast chicken and dressing etc. Then there was the Parade after which a lovely elaborate buffet luncheon was given. I have never seen such an attractive display before. They had 2 big roast turkeys, sandwiches, cakes, fruit salad, and all kinds of attractive cakes, cabobs on toothpicks and skewers. We decided to be good sports and take part in the Fancy Dress Parade. Our Stewart and Stewardess joined in our desperate search for materials, and we really had a lot of fun. We got some burlap sacks and made us skirts and the Elders some loin cloths and then we had crepe paper sashes, bracelets and anklet decorations, head dresses and to make us real Indians, we colored our skin with cocoa. The boys had their chests and faces decorated with white shoe polish and lipstick. I must say that we really were an attractive bunch of Indians. Elder Beazer could just imitate the Indian dance and he sounded like a true Laminite. Our drum was a cookie can all decorated. Anyway the crowd saw what Canadian Indians looked like and we received a lot of compliments on our efforts. Oh, yes, to our utter surprise and enjoyment, they gave us first prize for the groups, which was very nice.

Our Sacrament and Testimony meeting tonight was surely nice. If you ever see any of Elder Beazer folks at Cardston, you can mention that their son truly is a humble servant of the Lord, and he's always searching for the truths of the gospel. He has a wonderful gift of remembrance, and application of the knowledge he gains. He is supporting himself on this mission. I'm sure they'll be proud to know what a wonderful missionary their son is.

I'm truly grateful to you, Mom and Dad for giving me the teachings and the background you did. I just wish that I had followed it more closely. I've a lot of faults that the devil uses to work towards our down fall. I know I have the strength within reach to live up to all the commandments, if I will exercise faith and prayer.

Through your Red Cross you are not alone—when you help or when you give help. In March give generously and serve by giving.

Mechanical Progress
A century ago over 50 manhours were required to produce a 20 bushel per acre wheat crop.

At the beginning of this century, through engineering ingenuity, this had been reduced to eight man-hours per acre.

Today with engineering techniques and modern farm machines a 20 bushel per acre crop can be produced with about three man-hours.
